Financial Aid Agreement — Active Participation in Lessons and RFYO

(Please keep a copy of this page and the following information page.)

The success of the RFYO scholarship program depends on students being consistent in their lessons, practice, and rehearsal attendance and their parent's ongoing encouragement and support. The RFMS reserves the option of revoking a scholarship if a recipient is not meeting these goals.

Student scholarship requirements:

1. Attendance is required at all RFYO rehearsals, dress rehearsals, and concerts. Excused absences must be approved in advance of the rehearsal.
2. Students are required to participate in all Roaring Fork Youth Orchestra performances.
3. Students are expected to follow the lesson policies of their teacher, including the rescheduling and canceling of lessons. 24 hours notice is required to cancel a lesson except in cases of emergency or illness.
4. It is expected that students will maintain a consistent weekly lesson time (for most non-holiday weeks during the school year).
5. Students are required to practice at home and follow their teacher's assignments each week.
6. Open communication of the parent, teacher, and student is essential to successful private lessons. Parents are expected to be supportive of their child's lessons, ensuring that they practice consistently and arrive prepared for lessons.
7. If you are awarded a scholarship, you are responsible for paying the agreed-upon lesson payment to your private teacher before or on the day of lessons, or according to the teacher's policy. Lessons taken beyond the number awarded are not covered. If the full number of lessons are not taken during the year, these will not carry over to the following year.

More Information about tuition and lesson scholarships:

The Roaring Fork Youth Orchestra is a nonprofit organization committed to providing music education for all children in our community. We are able to provide reduced tuition rates through grants and our fundraising efforts; tuition only covers a small part of the RFYO costs. Our funds are limited and qualified students must meet eligibility requirements in order to receive financial assistance. Financial aid is awarded in the form of reduced tuition and/or reduced rates for private lessons.

- All students are required to reapply for scholarship each school year. To be considered for financial aid, returning student applicants must submit their most recent tax returns along with this application by August 1st.
- New student applications are accepted throughout the year, but we encourage families to apply as early as possible.
- All financial information is confidential and will be seen only by the scholarship committee (which does not include other RFYO teaching staff). The RFYO cannot guarantee that all applicants will receive the requested amount of scholarship, but does its best to evaluate all applications based on need.
- The Roaring Fork Youth Orchestra (RFYO) requires all string players to take weekly private lessons to support their individual growth as players. Lessons for winds, brass, and percussion players are also encouraged.

TUITION SCHOLARSHIPS

The scholarship committee awards reduced tuitions rate to qualifying students which can be paid in full or in installments throughout the year. Full payment is due by May 1st.

LESSON SCHOLARSHIPS

Students receive a reduced lesson rate for a set number of lessons for the school year. The remaining cost, according to the rates set by the RFYO, must be paid directly to your private teacher according to their studio policy.

The RFMS lesson scholarship program is structured so that students enroll in weekly 30- or 45-minute private lessons with their private teacher throughout the school year. RFMS sets the rate paid to private teachers at $40 per 30-minute lesson and $60 per 45-minute lesson and determines the lesson length based on age, playing level, and teacher recommendation. Often a teacher's regular lesson rates may differ from these rates, but rates are set at the same level for all scholarship students and all private teachers. If you elect to take any lessons with your teacher outside of the scholarship (which is common to do), they may choose what rate to charge and arrange that directly with you.

Once the scholarship committee considers your completed application, you will receive a letter stating whether or not you have received a scholarship for the semester. If you have received a scholarship, the letter will include details on the amount received as well as the amount you will be responsible for paying your teacher directly for lessons.
